In today's climate in interscholastic athletics, the recruiting process can create undeniable pressures not only for parents and student-athletes, but also for coaches, guidance counselors, and athletic administrators. With the increase in high school athletes interested in moving on to play college sports, it is now more important than ever for parents and student-athletes to know what is needed to be eligible and competitive for college admissions.

This is one of the many reasons J. S. Bullock & Associates, LLC is proud to provide a solution to educate and inform student-athletes, parents, coaches, guidance counselors, and athletic administrators about the college eligibility and recruiting process.

DESCRIPTION OF WORKSHOP:

This workshop is provided for high school student athletes and parents who are interested in learning what to do to prepare for college entrance and the athletic recruiting process, in addition to, understanding newly adopted legislation for NCAA/Division I/Division II eligibility requirements.
